

bird of paradise

This statement floor plant is popular for its large, attractive leaves and vase shaped form. Each new leaf unfurls from the base of the plant showcasing gorgeous blue-green foliage.

Grow in bright to bright, indirect light indoors and bright, filtered light or morning sun outdoors in the spring and summer months. Direct sun may burn the leaves.

Fertilize weekly with an all purpose, indoor plant fertilizer during periods of active growth.

Plant in a well-draining, all purpose potting soil rich in organic matter.

Bird of Paradise don't normally bloom when grown indoors unless conditions are perfect. Wipe foliage with damp cloth to keep them clean. Inspect both sides of leaves each time you water for signs of insect populations.

Keep consistently moist, but not water-logged during periods of active growth. In fall and winter, let soil dry slightly between waterings to avoid root rot. BOPS love humidity. Increase humidity by adding a humidifier.
