

ficus audrey/altissima

Ficus Audrey and Ficus Altissima are beloved for their interesting growth habit that is a mix between a Rubber Tree and a Fiddle Leaf Fig.

Ficus like bright, indirect light, but may do well in medium light or an Eastern exposure. Outdoors, place in indirect light to avoid leaf burn.

Feed weekly during periods of active growth; spring and summer.

Plant in an all-purpose potting soil. Repotting will encourage Ficus to grow larger. To keep size in check only repot every other year.

Ficus altissima has beautiful yellow and lime green variegated leaves while Ficus Audrey has sage-green, fuzzy leaves.

Water when the top several inches of soil are dry. Under-watering causes new leaves to drop while over-watering causes mature leaves to brown; first at the edges and then all the way through. An even watering schedule is ideal.
