

rhipsalis

Rhipsalis are a type of epiphytic trailing cactus commonly known as Mistletoe Cactus or Coral Cactus.

Place in bright light.

Use a sharp, well-drained potting soil such as a Cactus specific mix. Your soil should take up water, but drain and dry quickly.

Easy on the water! Water and drain thoroughly, then let soil dry completely between waterings.

Use a cacti specific fertilizer during active growth, spring through summer. Pause fertilization during inactive growth, fall and winter.

Rhipsalis produce cute little flowers when promoted to bloom after experiencing a period of lower temperatures and longer nights.
